Award-winning research for client advisors.

Our research: market intelligence and decision support

UBS's award-winning research for institutional clients is now available in a format especially designed to meet the varied demands of non-institutional clients. These clients usually require cross-product financial guidance. Our non-institutional research offer aims to provide your client advisors with concise and easily understandable information so that they can help their clients make better informed investment decisions.

Insights into markets and financial guidance

Our global team of specialist authors provides concise summaries of the bank's institutional research and its views on the global markets. Our research offer includes analyses of the world's most important companies and sectors, the latest themes from our strategy and equity market analysts, and thematic briefings on major market developments. We provide timely updates on global economics, foreign exchange, equity and bond markets on a daily and weekly basis. Currently, our non-institutional research offer is available in English and in German.

Visit research at UBS KeyInvest

UBS KeyInvest gives you access to our entire pool of non-institutional research. You will find a well-structured research site giving you both a comprehensive overview and an invaluable insight into the markets. You can offer your clients a direct link from your website to UBS KeyInvest – if you so desire.

The future: "tailor-made" research offer

We are continuously improving our offer and will introduce even more flexibility at a later stage. If you wish to integrate our research into your own website, then you may pick and choose exactly which research reports suit your requirements. You will be able to present our research in the way that best serves your advisors' information needs.

We would like to support your client advisors with our offer. As a content provider, we ensure that all our non-institutional research reports are legally compliant. Because UBS's non-institutional research provides valuable information, it is to be distributed to your client advisors only. It is not intended for distribution to other third parties.
