Interview with us?

Here are a few tips

- Prepare. Think about the typical questions that could come up in an interview, and what your responses would be. Having a few key points in your head that you'd want to get across is a great way to prepare.
- Practice. Practicing with a friend or family member will give your confidence a boost before your next interview with us.
- Persuade. Showing a level of knowledge that matches your years of experience will go a long way towards convincing us you're right for the role (as well as asking questions).
- Know our people. Attend one of our events to meet us (if available). Or read more about Life at UBS. Get a sense of who we are, how we operate as an organization, and what our priorities are.
- Be open and honest. We want to know about your ideas. We're also curious about your interests and experiences, and what you've learned from them. Who you are is important to us, so let us see the real you. If you don't know something, just say so. The ability to ask when you don't know is a strength, while bluffing is a weakness.
- Listen and think. Take your time when answering. Repeating or rephrasing the question, or asking for clarification, can be a good way to help you compose your thoughts.
