

UBS CMCI Industrial Metals Index

Factsheet, March 2026

Index Characteristics

- Objective: The UBS CMCI Industrial Metals Index is designed to provide enhanced beta exposure to the commodity industrial metals sector by applying the daily rolling mechanism and tenor diversification principle from the CMCI Methodology to its underlying components.
- Methodology: The CMCI was developed and launched by UBS in 2007 as a state-of-the-art broad commodity index. It features a weighting engine that allocates across a variety of commodities. For each underlying, exposure is distributed across the liquid tenors. Its methodology can be applied to any number of individual commodities and commodity sectors.
  - Daily rolling: Small proportions of the underlying futures are rolled daily to avoid the potential problems associated with the punctual roll of traditional indices.
  - Tenor diversification: The index takes positions across the liquid part of the commodity futures curve to avoid concentration at the front of the curve.
- Rebalancing: In accordance with the CMCI Methodology, the UBS CMCI Industrial Metals Index rebalances on a monthly basis back to target weights which are updated once per year. Monthly rebalancing helps to lower concentration risk, but does not eliminate it as weights are not capped intra-month.
- Enhanced benchmark: These innovative features aim to reduce the effects of negative roll yield and maximize the tracking of spot commodity prices. The methodology does not guarantee complete mitigation of negative roll yield.

Traditional Commodity Indices

- Limit exposure to short-dated futures contracts
- An upward sloping forward curve (“contango”) such as below puts investors in the costly position of “buying high, selling low” each time a future is rolled. This effect is known as negative roll yield.

UBS CMCI

- Expands commodity investment beyond short-dated futures contracts
- Gives access to various constant maturities. In doing so, it can reduce the financial impact of rolling futures and may diminish volatility found in traditional indices

Industrial Metals sector – Supply drivers

- Low inventories combined with production problems tend to flow straight through into higher prices.
- Global inventories remain low and there is not an adequate cushion against supply shocks.
- Increased labour unrest in the mining industry.
- Copper remains the most affected metal by both actual and threatened strikes.
- Other issues include Power costs, regulations about pollution and trade tariffs

Industrial Metals sector – Demand drivers

- Global trends, including population growth, rising GDP trade expansion as well as globalization push up demand for Industrial Metals of all kinds.
- Main positive driver - The emerging market, especially China has still a growing demand for any kind of industrial metal.
- Limiting factors - The financial crisis had a negative effect on commodity prices. As recovery in the markets begins, commodities are expected to follow

Key advantages

- CMCI indices are based on an intelligent rolling process that could reduce the negative roll effects of rolling commodity futures.
- Given CMCI indices invest across the liquid part of the futures curve, it could reduce the volatility of investment as compared to front month rolling indices.

Principal risks

- CMCI indices may not fully reflect any sharp rallies or drawdowns in commodities as they tend to affect the near dated futures contracts more than the farther dated.
- While CMCI aims to reduce negative roll yield, in certain market scenarios it may underperform the traditional front month rolling indices.

For example, depositors with foreign ADIs do not receive the benefit of the following protections: (i) Deposits are not covered by the financial claims scheme and are not guaranteed by the Australian Government; (ii) Deposits do not receive priority ahead of amounts owed to other creditors. This means that if a foreign ADI were unable to meet its obligations or otherwise is in financial difficulties and ceases to make payments, its depositors in Australia would not receive priority for repayment of their deposits from the foreign ADI's assets in Australia; (iii) A foreign ADI is not required to hold assets in Australia to cover its deposit liabilities in Australia. This means that if the foreign ADI were unable to meet its obligations or otherwise is in financial difficulties and ceases to make payments, it is uncertain whether depositors would be able to access the full amount of their deposit. UBS Securities Australia Ltd is a subsidiary of UBS AG. However, it is not an authorised deposit-taking institution under the Banking Act 1959 (Cth). The obligations of UBS Securities Australia Ltd do not represent deposits or other liabilities of UBS AG, and UBS AG does not stand behind, support or guarantee UBS Securities Australia Ltd in any way.

Copyright © 2026 MerQube, Inc. All rights reserved. Redistribution or reproduction in whole or in part are prohibited without written permission. This document does not constitute an offer of services in jurisdictions where MerQube Inc., and affiliates (collectively "MerQube") do not have the necessary licenses. All information provided by MerQube is impersonal and not tailored to the needs of any person, entity or group of persons. MerQube receives compensation in connection with licensing its indices to third parties and providing custom calculation services. Past performance of an index is not an indication or guarantee of future results.

It is not possible to invest directly in an index. Exposure to an asset class represented by an index is available through investable instruments based on that index. MerQube does not sponsor, endorse, sell, promote or manage any investment fund or other investment vehicle that is offered by third parties and that seeks to provide an investment return based on the performance of any index. MerQube makes no assurance that investment products based on the index will accurately track index performance or provide positive investment returns. MerQube, Inc. is not an investment advisor, and MerQube makes no representation regarding the advisability of investing in any such investment fund or other investment vehicle. A decision to invest in any such investment fund or other investment vehicle should not be made in reliance on any of the statements set forth in this document. Prospective investors are advised to make an investment in any such fund or other vehicle only after carefully considering the risks associated with investing in such funds, as detailed in an offering memorandum or similar document that is prepared by or on behalf of the issuer of the investment fund or other investment product or vehicle.

Closing prices for indices are calculated by MerQube based on the closing price of the individual constituents of the index as set by their primary exchange. Closing prices are received by MerQube from one of its third-party vendors and verified by comparing them with prices from an alternative vendor. The vendors receive the closing price from the primary exchanges.

PERFORMANCE DISCLOSURE

Charts and graphs are provided for illustrative purposes. Past performance is not an indication or guarantee of future results. The charts and graphs may reflect hypothetical historical performance. All information presented prior to the launch date is back tested. Back-tested performance is not actual performance but is hypothetical. The back-test calculations are based on the same methodology that was in effect when the index(es) was officially launched. However, back-tested data may reflect the application of the index methodology with the benefit of hindsight, and historical calculations may change based on revisions to the economic data used in the calculation of the index. Complete index methodology details are available at www.merqube.com. It is not possible to invest directly in any index.

The First Value Date is the first day for which there is a calculated value (either live or backtested) for a given index. The Launch Date designates the date upon which the values of a given index are first considered live: index values provided for any date or time period prior to the index's Launch Date are considered backtested. MerQube defines the Launch Date as the date by which the values of an index are known to have been released to the public.

The index returns shown do not represent the results of actual trading of securities. MerQube, Inc. does not manage actual assets. Index returns do not reflect payment of any sales charges or fees an investor may pay to purchase the securities underlying the index(es) or investment funds that are intended to track the performance of the index(es). The imposition of these fees and charges would cause actual and back-tested performance of the fund/investment vehicle to be lower than the performance of the index that the vehicle/fund tracks.

ADDITIONAL UBS DISCLOSURE IN RESPECT OF MERQUBE

MerQube, Inc. administers and calculates the UBS Bloomberg CMCI index family for UBS AG. MerQube, Inc. does not guarantee the accuracy, timeliness, or completeness of the calculations or any data or information relating to the Index. MerQube, Inc. makes no warranty, express or implied, as to the Index, or any values or data related thereto or results to be obtained therefrom, and expressly disclaims all warranties of merchantability and fitness for a particular purpose with respect thereto. To the maximum extent permitted by law, MerQube, Inc., its affiliates, and all their respective employees, subcontractors, partners, agents, suppliers, and vendors (collectively, the "protected parties") shall have no liability, contingent or otherwise, for any injury or damages, whether caused by the negligence of a protected party or otherwise, arising in connection with the calculation or administration of the Index or any data or values included therein or in connection therewith and shall not be liable for any losses (including lost profits), punitive, incidental, or consequential damages.

Prospective investors in any product linked to any index in respect of which MerQube acts as index administrator should be aware that as at the time of issuance, UBS AG and/or its affiliates ("UBS") has made an investment in shares in MerQube and accordingly holds [up to 10%] of Merqube's share capital. In certain situations, this may create a conflict of interest between UBS and any investors in the product.
