Information you submit as part of your application must be true, accurate, complete and not misleading. Any false or misleading statements or omissions made by you during the application process, including your application and any assessments and interviews, may be sufficient cause to justify the rejection of your application or, if you have already become an employee, the immediate termination of your employment, subject to due process.

If you provide information about your family or any other third party to us as part of your application (e.g., emergency contacts or referees) then, before providing us with such information, you must inform the relevant individuals that you will disclose their Personal Data to us and provide a copy of the information in this Notice to them.

In some cases, the Personal Data that we process will also include sensitive Personal Data, such as diversity-related information (including data about political opinions, religious beliefs and other beliefs of a similar nature) and data about alleged or proven criminal offences.

In some cases, the Personal Data we collect from you is needed to meet our legal or regulatory obligations. If so, we will indicate to you that the provision of this information is mandatory, and the consequences if we cannot collect this information.

The above-mentioned Personal Data are collected from information that you directly provide (through the completion and submission of online application forms and profiles, through resumes or curriculum vitae, or through interviews or other communications). In some cases, UBS will also collect Personal Data indirectly from third parties, such as recruitment agencies that you used to apply to UBS, background check providers such as HireRight and other administration services providers (for instance who provide candidate shortlisting services), or from publicly available sources such as business- and employment-orientated social networking services and job boards.

3.2 Basis for the processing of Personal Data

Depending on the purpose of the processing activity (see section 3.1), the legal basis for the processing of your Personal Data will be one of the following:

- necessary to comply with an obligation imposed on UBS by law, such as reference requirements;
- necessary to protect the vital interests of the relevant individual, such as providing disability access to UBS premises for interviews where applicable;

Examples of the 'legitimate interests' referred to above are:

- to benefit from cost-effective services, efficient solutions and subject-matter expertise (e.g., we may opt to use certain IT platforms offered by suppliers. We may also share Personal Data with another UBS entity so that a team with the appropriate subject-matter expertise can provide advice or support);
- to determine whether a candidate or potential candidate's skills, qualities and experience are suitable for a role within UBS, and determine whether or not to either (i) make an offer of employment with UBS; or (ii) approach a candidate with a view to making an offer of employment with UBS, on this basis;
- at the appropriate stage in the recruitment process (i.e., as part of making an offer of employment to you), to verify the accuracy of information you have provided to us as part of your application, including through background screening;
- to prevent fraud or criminal activity, misuses of our products or services as well as the security of our IT systems, architecture and networks and security of UBS premises; and
