

Own your worth

Why women should take control of their wealth to achieve financial well-being

Women around the world know that they're living longer

Longevity influences women's top financial needs

76%
retirement planning

72%
long-term care planning

68%
insurance

Most women take care of short-term finances...

...but opt out of long-term finances

58%
"My spouse takes the lead in major financial decisions."

Globally, women defer long-term financial decisions to spouses

Younger women defer even more

Why women opt out

82%

"I think my spouse knows more about this topic than I do."

79%

"We take a divide-and-conquer approach. I focus on other responsibilities."

78%

"My spouse is the primary breadwinner in the family."

Opting out has high costs when marriage ends

74%

of widows and divorcees discover negative financial surprises

Women who have been there know better

77%

of divorcees and widows encourage other women to take a more active role in their finances

Sharing decisions equally has big benefits

95%

"If something happens to my spouse, I will already know all about our finances."

94% "I am more confident about our financial future."

93% "We make fewer mistakes with both of us involved."

91% "I am less stressed about our finances."

Be involved in your financial future. Talk to your UBS Client Advisor today.

About the survey: From September 2017 to January 2019, UBS surveyed 3,652 women. Of these women, 2,251 were married with at least $1m in investable assets. Others (1,401) were either divorced or widowed. These women had at least $250k in investable assets. UBS also conducted interviews with 71 female respondents. The entire sample was split across nine markets: Brazil, Germany, Hong Kong, Mexico, Singapore, Switzerland, Italy, the UK and the US.

© UBS 2019. The key symbol and UBS are among the registered and unregistered trademarks of UBS. All rights reserved.