

Fixed income remains our preferred asset class, but we also see upside for equity indexes. (UBS)

How are we positioned?

12.19.2023

19 December 2023, 3:55 pm CET, written by UBS Editorial Team

We recommend investors maintain a balanced portfolio, with positive prospective returns across stocks, bonds, and alternative investments.

Our Central View

- Economic growth is likely to slow in 2024 as the US economy is in “late cycle.”
- Fed rate hikes have likely peaked.
- Our base case remains a “soft-ish landing,” but the Fed will likely have to start trimming rates in 2024 to avoid a recession.
- Look for quality within each asset class.
- With interest rates nearing a peak, we believe high-quality bonds are attractive.
- We see somewhat modest upside for equities following the recent rally.
- We think earnings growth can accelerate in 2024 despite slowing GDP growth due to base effects in healthcare and energy as well as diminished headwinds from the goods segment of the economy.
- Despite a cooling labor market, consumers remain in good shape. The resumption of student loan repayments, lagged effects from higher interest rates, and elevated mortgage rates could prompt a bit of a slowdown in consumer spending.
- Geopolitical and government shutdown risks are additional potential headwinds.

Asset Class Views

Fixed income remains our preferred asset class, but we also see upside for equity indexes.

- Equities: neutral – we see somewhat modest upside in the year ahead.

- US Equities: neutral (upgrade from least preferred) – supported by earnings growth among quality companies (strong balance sheets, relatively stable operating margins, healthy free cash flow yields, strong returns on invested capital).
 - Style : neutral on value vs. growth.
 - Size : prefer US small caps over US large caps.
 - Sectors : most preferred - information technology, energy, and consumer staples; least preferred - materials, utilities, and real estate.
- EM Equities: most preferred - many economies are proving resilient, and valuations look appealing.
- Fixed Income: most preferred – focus on high-quality with attractive yields and potential for capital appreciation if interest rate expectations fall.
 - US Fixed Income: most preferred – US investment grade corporates and agency MBS. Recommend a US TIPS allocation that does not shorten the duration of a portfolio since real yields are at attractive levels across the curve.
- Oil: most preferred - supplies remain tight amid solid demand.

Some Base Case Targets for December 2024

- S&P 500: 4,700.
- S&P 500 EPS: 240 (9% year-over-year).
- 10-year US Treasury yield: 3.5%.
- WTI oil: USD 91/bbl.
- Gold: USD 2,250/oz.

Important information

As a firm providing wealth management services to clients, UBS Financial Services, Inc is registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) as an investment adviser and a broker-dealer, offering both investment advisory and brokerage services. Advisory services and brokerage services are separate and distinct, differ in material ways and are governed by different laws and separate contracts. It is important that you carefully read the agreements and disclosures UBS provides to you about the products or services offered. For more information, please visit our website at www.ubs.com/workingwithus.

© UBS 2023. All rights reserved. UBS Financial Services Inc. is a subsidiary of UBS AG. Member FINRA/SIPC.

There are two sources of UBS research. Reports from the first source, UBS CIO Global Wealth Management, are designed for individual investors and are produced by UBS Global Wealth Management (which includes UBS Financial Services Inc. and UBS International Inc.). The second research source is UBS Group Research, whose primary business focus is institutional investors. The two sources operate independently and may therefore have different recommendations. The various research content provided does not take into account the unique investment objectives, financial situation or particular needs of any specific individual investor. If you have any questions, please consult your Financial Advisor. UBS Financial Services Inc. is a subsidiary of UBS AG and an affiliate of UBS International Inc.